

Figure 4. Downstream variations in (A) mean channel migration rates, and (B) maximum channel migration rates. Mean rates are calculated as the average of three measurements made at 100 m intervals at each site, whereas maximum rates represent the largest values observed at each location.